

How to Play Penny Dare

Cut out cards and put them into a small paper lunch-size bag. Put a pile of pennies in the center of the table. Children take turns choosing a card from the bag and handing it to the adult. The adult reads the card and determines how many answers the child must say to earn one penny.

The number of answers to earn a penny should increase each time the child plays this game.

Adults may give hints like suggesting categories, looking at a map, or looking in a dictionary when stumped. Write some good questions of your own and use this game as a learning experience for children. Play this game often because this is a wonderful activity for helping children to make neural connections which will enable them to develop more advanced critical thinking skills.
